HELLO!

I'm a senior designer in Seattle. I'm excited about web design, mobile application design, user experience and front-end development. Although the web is my passion, I enjoy being able to jump around and work on all kinds of projects – from branding to packaging to anything involving illustration. My favorite thing about design is the constantly changing landscape. Keeping up with new devices and technologies guarantees that my work will never be boring.

I love working with people; building relationships is very important to me. I always appreciate what others can teach me, personally and professionally.

ABOUT

Outside of design I'm into cooking then eating what I cook, poking around in the garden, mixing up cocktails, finding good documentaries on Netflix, hosting dinner parties, petting my cats, hanging out with my husband and working on our latest house project.
